Sally Armstrong

...is a well known human rights activist, a documentary filmmaker, award-winning author, past editor-in-chief of Homemaker's magazine, and now a contributing editor at Maclean's magazine. From Bosnia and Somalia to Rwanda, Gaza and Afghanistan, Sally's reports about women and girls in war zones all over the world have placed the plight of women centre stage so the world can see and respond.

Royal Bank of Canada

A leading financier at the Royal Bank will share some of the most valuable tips about business and finance. In these challenging times, this is just what we need. (name to be announced soon)

Janice Kahehtio Longboat

Mohawk Elder from Six Nations of the Grand River; Leader/Creator of Healing Workshops: We have within us the power to shape our lives, and the intuition to guide us through that process. Janice teaches us to trust our inner voice. Her desire? "all my sisters dream, envision, and fly forward in peace"

Sgt. Kim Terrington

Sr. Recruiter, Canadian Forces

Kim joined the forces at 17, searching for an unusual and challenging career.

She got that and more. Now a recruiter, she energizes new recruits with stories of her wartime experiences and love of Canada's military role at home as well as abroad. She encourages gratitude for our beautiful peaceful country.

Julie Simpson

CNIB, Manager, Major Gifts. Julie works with, and grows the provincial fundraising area for CNIB in SW Ontario. Her goal is to attract, inspire, thank, and retain donors who change the daily lives of CNIB clients. As co-emcee, Julie always delights and is one of our best.

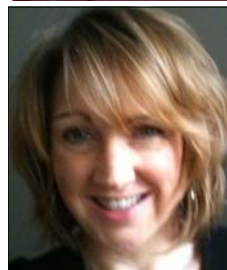

Susan Minns

Susan Minns is Canada's premier humourist. She'll find a way to laugh at any topic. In the process, she'll give us a fabulous life lesson and motivate us to be positive and open to what life may throw our way. Once you've heard Sue speak—you'll definitely want more, and you'll never forget her!

Catherine McCutcheon

Our favorite radio host and creator of Fearless Speakers, Catherine always delivers great humour as an emcee. Her other passion is to teach how to be comfortable while at a microphone—something she does every day.

Elsi Angulo

Colombian born, Elsi surmounted amazing odds to become the first black female lawyer in Colombia, and then she set her sights on becoming a prosecuting attorney. Her passion was to rid her country of drug lords, and her success with this goal eventually triggered death threats against Elsi and her family. Now safely in Canada, Elsi continues to serve her community.

Krystaal

This group has won numerous musical awards in Canada and the USA. They recently wrote and performed a song for World Vision, to help raise funds for children in Haiti. These gentle men are the brothers of Elizabeth, for whom our Fairy Godmother projects are raising funds. See the Save Elizabeth Project for a sneak preview of these amazing Canadians....
